Re: Serendia, LLC's patent portfolio related to certain medical devices

Dear Mr. Tillemans:

SynKloud Technologies, LLC ("SynKloud") is the exclusive licensee of a Serendia, LLC's patent portfolio related to certain medical devices. Serendia, LLC ("Serendia") is an assignee of the following US patent rights and pending applications.

U.S. Patent No. 9,480,836
U.S. Patent No. 10,058,379
U.S. Patent No. 10,799,286
U.S. Patent No. 9,320,536
U.S. Patent No. 8,979,912
U.S. Patent No. 9,630,002
U.S. Patent No. 9,775,774
U.S. Patent Application No. 15/095,098
U.S. Patent Application No. 17/061523

Copies of the United States patents can be downloaded free of charge from the United States Patent and Trademark Office's website at www.uspto.gov.

SynKloud analyzed public information and reasonably determined that your company's sales of Potenza(https://www.cynosure.com/product/potenza/), a dermatological treatment system manufactured by Jeisys Medical, Inc, utilizes and causes its customers to utilize at least the following U.S. Patents:

U.S. Patent No. 9,480,836
U.S. Patent No. 10,058,379
U.S. Patent No. 9,320,536
U.S. Patent No. 10,869,812

As such, your company requires a license from SynKloud to cover both its past and future utilizations of these patents. SynKloud continues to review its portfolio for additional uses.

SynKloud™

Once you have had the opportunity to review the patents above, SynKloud strongly suggests a call or video meeting in order to initiate licensing discussions. Should your company be interested in licensing Serendia's patent portfolio, I would like to explore an amicable business resolution at your earliest convenience. I respectfully request that you acknowledge receipt of this letter via email to myself (keith.im@synkloud.com), then I will assist you in discussion of licensing terms and conditions.

Again, I look forward to your timely response in order to work with you/your company to resolve this matter for mutual benefit.

Very truly yours,

Keith K. Im
