STUDY QUESTIONS

1. Analyze how Medrano's Series B fundraising strategy worked and didn't work. What would you have recommended?
2. Analyze the multi-staged Series B closings. Was this the best strategy? What were the alternatives?
3. What other incentives could DoDots have provided in order to get investors to close the round?
4. How could Medrano and the team have better coupled fundraising with management of the company?
5. What could Medrano and DoDots do to better adapt the company to this changing market?
6. Analyze the various forms of debt DoDots had taken on. How did this increase and/or decrease risk? Was this good for the company?
7. Analyze the conflict of interest between Series A and Series B investors. How is this good for the company? How is this bad for the company? What are the major difficulties in negotiating with both new and previous investors who are going to invest in a round?
8. Analyze the company's business model. How did it charge customers? What are its strengths & weaknesses? How did this increase or decrease financial & market risk?
9. Analyze the failure of the ABC and Spinway relationships. Was the team trying to force a product on an unresponsive market? How could they have better adapted their expectations and managed the company?

This case was prepared by Tony Medrano under the supervision of John Glynn, Lecturer in Management, Stanford University Graduate School of Business, as the basis for class discussion rather than to illustrate either effective or ineffective handling of an administrative situation.

For confidentiality purposes some facts and numbers in this case have been changed. These changes should not affect the readers conclusions.
