

Patrick Lauppe

Associate

plauppe@cooley.com

Intellectual Property

Intellectual Property Litigation

+1 650 843 5833

Palo Alto

Patrick is an associate in the intellectual property litigation practice group. He rejoined Cooley after serving as a patent law clerk for Judge Beth Labson Freeman in the US District Court for the Northern District of California. Having co-designed a cryptocurrency and completed programming courses during law school, Patrick focuses his practice on cutting-edge technologies, such as augmented reality, artificial intelligence, autonomous vehicles, video games, semiconductor chips and medical devices. Patrick has experience before the US Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, the US International Trade Commission, the Patent Trial and Appeal Board, and federal district court.

Education

Yale Law School

JD, 2018

Harvard University

BA, 2013

Admissions & Credentials

California

Court Admissions

US District Court, Eastern District of Texas

US Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit

US District Court for the Eastern District of California

US District Court for the Northern District of California

US District Court for the Southern District of California

US District Court for the Central District of California