1 TUESDAY, JUNE 20, 2023

2 THE COURT: Good morning. We are here on the case
3 of Provisur v. Weber. May I have appearances by the parties, 4 please?

5 MR. BABBITT: Morning, Your Honor. Michael Babbitt 6 for plaintiff, and with me is Taylor Concannon-Hausmann and 7 Jeff Simon.

8 MR. LEIKER: Morning, Your Honor. For defendants
9 Weber, Mr. Don Banowit, Ms. Deirdre Wells, and myself, Jason 10 Leiker.

11 THE COURT: Well, welcome, everyone.

12 Did you guys all see my order that came out this 13 morning? In addition to those justifications, I'm getting 14 tired of working on this case, and so my sincere hope is we 15 can get this one done and do the discovery necessary and at 16 least have the finality unless I've committed reversible error
17 and the Eighth Circuit or the Fed Circuit sends it back to me.

18 So I think we can -- well, Ms. Wells, do you think 19 we should talk about discovery first, or do you think we 20 should schedule first?

21 MR. BANOWIT: I think I'd like to -- you know, I 22 think we ought to talk about what happens next in terms of the 23 schedule. I think the schedule that the parties submitted to 24 you, we indicated in our paper, doesn't make sense if you're 25 going to add extra things. So we figured this one's out the 1 door, and according to what we're aware of, the next things

2 that need to happen is they need to file their amended 3 complaint. And then the federal rules and local rules take 4 over in terms of the deadlines that need to happen next.

5 We need an opportunity to file our Rule 12 motions,
6 have them file an opposition on reply, get that decided upon.
7 Then once that's over, we then need time, if there's anything 8 left, to answer. We'll likely have counterclaims, which 9 they're going to have to answer, and once all that's done, if 10 we could get together in a brand new 26(f), come up with a 11 schedule for this brand new case, and have a scheduling 12 conference late in the year on what's going to happen for what 13 you now have before us. The way we see it this is 14 basically -- you know, we are starting from scratch.

15 THE COURT: I bet you bet, like I do, they're going 16 to tell me something different.

17 MR. BANOWIT: I don't know how there's anything we 18 can reasonably do other than that. There's no way -- you 19 actually said in your papers before when you gave them an 20 opportunity to do this that this would allow Weber the normal 21 opportunity to receive timely infringement contentions, 22 propound discovery, identify claim construction disputes, 23 develop its defenses pursuant to a regular procedural 24 schedule. That's what we intend to do here. We are not 25 rushing this.

1 THE COURT: Babbitt?

2 MR. BABBITT: Thank you, Your Honor.

3 I disagree with Mr. Banowit. As we said in the 4 proposed schedule, we actually think the schedule would be 5 just fine. We're willing to work with them, work with you to 6 come up with a schedule that makes sense. If there needs to 7 be some extra time built into that, I think we can talk about 8 that, but I would recommend we set up a trial date and we work 9 backwards from that to get the deadlines that need to be in 10 there and we get going.

11 Like you said in your orders today, there's 12 overlapping issues. We know there's the same witnesses.
13 There's the same discovery. The whole reason we're putting it 14 together is because there's that --

15 THE COURT: How soon can you file an amended 16 complaint?

17 MR. BABBITT: Tomorrow.

18 THE COURT: So you can file one by June 23rd.

19 MR. BABBITT: Yes, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: And you -- I'm assuming no additional 21 parties?

22 MR. BABBITT: No, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: Mr. Banowit?

24 MR. BANOWIT: Rule 15 would normally give us 14 days
25 to respond to an amended complaint. I think in this instance

1 when we're looking at a 44-page complaint with almost 200
2 paragraphs, we'd request 21 days to file our responsive
3 pleading, which, as I said, will likely be Rule 12 motions.

4 THE COURT: 21 days is more than reasonable to file 5 a responsive pleading.

6 THE COURTROOM DEPUTY: It would be Friday, July 7 14th.

8 MR. BANOWIT: Assuming they file the paper tomorrow.

9 THE COURTROOM DEPUTY: That would be from the 23rd.

10 THE COURT: We'll just put in there by July 14th you 11 can file a responsive pleading.

12 MR. BANOWIT: Okay.

13 THE COURT: We have to somehow get this case going,
14 and there's something appealing about Mr. Babbitt's proposal 15 of setting a trial and working back from that. But, 16 Mr. Banowit, I want to hear you out on why that wouldn't work.

17 MR. BANOWIT: I've got a bunch of reasons, but I'll 18 start with the most simple of them.

19 We have no idea right now what issues will survive 20 the motions phase, what issues we will put into our 21 counterclaims. It's more than likely we're going to have more 22 issues in this case than what we have right now. So it's 23 premature for us to even approach that.

24 I think the way that the federal rules lay this out
25 is proper. You've got to see what's in the final complaint

1 and what's in the counterclaims so that you can then assess
2 it. We'll be in a position once all that's done to sit down
3 and talk about what's an appropriate schedule, how much time 4 we need for discovery of the various issues that are involved.

5 Assuming there's patent issues still in the case, 6 then, which there appears there's going to be, we need to 7 follow local patent rules in terms of what it sets out for the 8 initial contentions, which they'll have to give us, our 9 initial invalidity contentions, the Markman that we'll have to 10 have for any new issues that might come up in this case. Then 11 we'll be basically where we are in this case probably a year 12 or more from now.

13 But there's no chance this case is getting tried 14 before 2025, certainly given what we've got in it. That's 15 just not the due process way of going through this. The 16 proper way of doing this now is to follow the process of the 17 rules to figure out what are the issues.

18 We can't even do discovery right now because I don't 19 know whether their claims are going to survive, what they look 20 like. They certainly at a minimum need to be more definite in 21 terms of what they have. So we have to understand what are 22 the claims in this case before we can even figure out what 23 we're doing discovery on.

24 So I think all this stuff is premature. We can try 25 our best later this year when we get together to do a

1 scheduling conference on going forward in this case to come up
2 with a schedule that moves things quickly. But we -- we're -- 3 we need to be able to have the time to go through the process
4 of finalizing what claims are now in this case before we can 5 do any of that.

6 MR. BABBITT: May I reply, Your Honor?

7 Today is a scheduling conference, right, so we're 8 here to set the schedule. The claims that are in the case are 9 what's going to be in the amended case. They've known about 10 that for a while, and we shouldn't forget that we had that 11 whole big trial last year. Been talking about these patent 12 issues. There's talk about the local patent rules. A lot of 13 that we did already. So the jury found those patents to be 14 valid.

15 THE COURT: So here's what we're going to do: We're 16 trying this in 2024. We're not trying it in 2025. If I've 17 got to pull out the guys from Texas to call them up and tell 18 me how to make this happen super quick and run over people's 19 due process rights, I'll call up the Texas judges because 20 they've got something figured out down there, right or wrong.

21 I have a lot of appreciation of what you're saying, 22 that we need to at least figure out what's here and to give 23 time for the local patent rules to play out. Whatever 24 deadline's in those, we're going to reduce them. We are going 25 to move this ahead because there's a -- there's so much of

1 this has already been done. There's so much of the discovery
2 disputes that I have in front of me that already have these 3 same issues engaged, and we have been together as a team
4 collectively, all of us, too long. And we need to figure out 5 how to make this really get done.

6 So I'm not going to set the trial date now because I
7 think Mr. Banowit is right that there's some stuff that needs
8 to be done. But some of this is on plaintiff. You can push.

9 Tracey, do we have other dates left this summer 10 already on this case?

11 THE COURTROOM DEPUTY: We do. They are --

12 MS. WELLS: August 2nd.

13 THE COURTROOM DEPUTY: And September 5th.

14 THE COURT: So we're going to make August 2nd our 15 new -- well, what was the September date, Tracey?

16 THE COURTROOM DEPUTY: September 5th.

17 THE COURT: September 5th is our new scheduling 18 conference, and you guys can totally disagree and not come to 19 any type of agreement on how this plays out. And I'll just 20 adopt whoever has the most aggressive schedule.

21 But Mr. Babbitt and Ms. Wells are our discovery
22 experts; is that right?

23 MR. BABBITT: We've been trying, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: So the two of you need to understand 25 that I'm going to put my foot on the gas pedal. Agree, don't

1 agree. I understand the defendants' position, and you can 2 argue that to me again on September 5th when we try to this 3 get scheduled again.

4 But local rules are not Federal Rules of Civil 5 Procedure, and if I need to abandon them, even though I'm the 6 judge in charge of the local rules, I'll just abandon them.
7 But we need to figure out how to take advantage of the 8 experience that we've had getting here, the experience that we 9 theoretically could have had a trial in the summer of next 10 year but for my ruling and Provisur's desire to incorporate 11 this additional claim.

12 So we're not talking about having it in May of 2024,
13 but we're having it in 2024. So either oppose or find a way 14 to make it happen.

15 MR. BANOWIT: I'll just try to be the voice of 16 reason here, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: You're good at that, Banowit.

18 MR. BANOWIT: Let me just throw some numbers out for 19 you so you can do some calculation with me.

20 A typical motion in this court has a 14-day
21 opposition period and a 14-day reply period. That's 28 days.
22 28 days from the deadline that we've set for our responsive 23 pleading, the Rule 12 motion will be fully briefed, okay?

24 So when we come here in September, at best the rule 25 12 motion will have been fully briefed. Maybe you'll have it

1 decided by then, but as you know under the federal rules, once
2 a decision is made on Rule 12 motions, then there is a 3 deadline of 14 days for the answer to be filed, right?

4 Now, if it turns out that they're required to do a 5 more definite statement, it's 14 days for them to fix their 6 complaint. We'll see how that goes.

7 But let's just assume 14 days after the 28 days is 8 our answer. If we have counterclaims in there, they have 9 another 21 days under federal rules to respond to the 10 counterclaims. So that right there is another 35 days post 11 the decision on the Rule 12 motion before we know what the 12 claims are in this case. So I don't see how we can set a 13 schedule even in September for a case we don't know what it's 14 going to look like.

15 So to me I don't think we can have a scheduling
16 conference any time earlier than October, and if you want us 17 to meet and confer, like you normally would do on a 26(f), 18 before the scheduling conference and propose a schedule to 19 you, doing a conference right at the beginning of October is 20 not going to give us time for that either.

21 It really makes the most sense to set a scheduling
22 conference for November, December of this year when hopefully 23 these things are resolved or -- I mean, you're going to have 24 to be flexible here, right? What would we do in September if 25 the parties still haven't finalized the pleadings?

1 THE COURT: I'll just pick a date.

2 MR. BANOWIT: For?

3 THE COURT: For trial. We're just going to make 4 this thing happen in 2024. All these dates, including 5 anything set forth in the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, I 6 can change and do. Right? I mean, I do. I tell people all 7 the time that you're going to get this served on the parties 8 quicker, and if I have to adjust every date along the way, I 9 will. But we have -- if dragging it out as long as we've 10 dragged it out hasn't gotten us all the way to the end zone, 11 then I'm just going to have to gas pedal it.

12 MR. BANOWIT: I don't understand why this now has to 13 be our problem.

14 THE COURT: It's not your problem.

15 MR. BANOWIT: Why their decision to file these -- to 16 totally change the case. It would be one -- they're not just 17 adding a product, right? They're adding a whole set of state 18 law claims here. Now we see whether those survive Rule 12 or 19 not, but if they do, we've got a much larger case here that we 20 would be dealing with that is not a simple amendment they're 21 making.

22 THE COURT: And --

23 MR. BANOWIT: I caution you to rush these things.

24 THE COURT: I get it. It's not your problem. I get 25 it that you want to delay. I get it that they've brought in

1 new claims that maybe shouldn't be brought, and they can go
2 back and revisit that between now and the 23rd. But, fellows, 3 we're going to get this thing done.

4 And all I have done for years now is hear parties on 5 both sides tell me how it can't be done and how it's got to 6 have more time. All I have seen is millions of dollars spent 7 on attorneys' fees on this case. And I'm done. And like -- 8 and if I need a better example of why I'm done, read these 9 discovery disputes. The things that I say are not heard, that 10 the things that are done are we just delay and bill hours, and 11 honestly I'm just done, right?

12 So we've got a ton of discovery done, and we've got 13 -- this is a '21 case. I'm going to have to report myself to 14 Chief Justice Roberts.

15 MR. BANOWIT: They chose to amend it almost two 16 years into it. I mean, normally that would not be permitted.
17 That's the problem they have with now blowing the case open as 18 we have. But that's where we are. You can't rush us in this 19 and go shorter than what the reasonable federal rules say.

20 THE COURT: Here's the deal: Whenever you tell an 21 Article III judge they can't do something, we're stuck in a 22 box, right? I've got to now, right? I can and legally I can, 23 and I am. And we've just got to get this thing done in 2024.

24 So if I have to start whacking at every -- and, you
25 know, we're going to go back and I'll call the Texas judges.

1 Fortunately some of them were in my baby judge school class.
2 At least one of them is a great cookie baker. So I'll call 3 him up, and he'll probably send me cookies, and figure out how 4 the heck they do this because while from afar, I've never been 5 impressed with how they ran these things down.

6 But they have a way, right? I mean, they have a 7 Markman hearing, and you kind of get told whatever they do.
8 I'm just -- from both sides, I'm tired of this, right? I 9 mean -- and right now, Mr. Banowit, you are being very 10 thoughtful and respectful and being a good advocate for your 11 client, which you've always been.

12 And, you know, maybe a lot of this blame goes on 13 Babbitt, right? They brought this new claim. We've been 14 arguing about this, and part of this is on me for dragging out 15 this decision way too damn long about to add it or not add it, 16 and I've sent mixed messages. And that's on me. For that I 17 apologize. But go back and tell whomever that I'm ready to 18 move it and we're trying this thing in 2024 where we can alter 19 the dates and be thoughtful in it.

20 Listen, Babbitt, a lot of this is on you, and a lot
21 of this is on Craig. And we have to figure out how the hell
22 to get this discovery done and how to limit your claims. So 23 if you're lopping in a bunch of state law claims that you can 24 get rid of and we can dramatically narrow it down, it's only 25 going to help you out because you already know I like Banowit

1 a lot. And I think he is being reasonable; that he -- I mean, 2 due process means something, right?

3 He has an opportunity to be heard, and he should 4 have an opportunity to respond, and he should have an 5 opportunity to file his motion to dismiss. While it takes 14 6 days to respond, you guys all get orders one day after they're 7 briefed here. So it ain't going to be on me.

8 Get on you. You decide to make this a priority, and 9 don't take 14 days. And all of you quit giving each other 10 extensions, and you make this a priority, and the bullshit 11 with the discovery on both sides has got to stop.

12 So we're going to come back in September and do our 13 best to get this thing scheduled, and I'll hear your 14 arguments. And you'll do your best to like we think this is 15 crap, we should get more time to respond, but here's also 16 another -- if you're going to do it to us, here's a reasonable 17 way to get out, and plaintiff is being entirely unreasonable
18 because that's what Babbitt does is be unreasonable.

19 We've got to figure out some way to get this done in 20 2024. And I can do it by talking to my Texas buddies, or you 21 can do it in a thoughtful way.

22 Anything else on that issue of scheduling in this 23 case, Mr. Banowit?

24 MR. BANOWIT: I think the only other issue is that 25 the parties recently filed an ESI stipulation with several

1 deadlines in it, substantial completion deadline and deadline
2 for certain counts. I think given that the issues are now 3 larger in the case than those, that's certainly not going to 4 be the end of discovery in this case. It's going to be some 5 other time. I think I would --

6 THE COURT: Here's what we're going to do on that.
7 So those same deadlines are going to stay in effect for the 8 same discovery, and then we're going to talk about the new 9 discovery because we're not going to hold up the reins on 10 anything. If there's discovery that we know and those claims 11 have survived and we're moving ahead, then keep moving ahead.
12 We're not stopping it. Keep moving it ahead is how we'll deal 13 with those deadlines.

14 MR. BANOWIT: So that discovery would not apply to 15 any of their weSLICE allegations or any of their state law 16 allegations; it would only apply to allegations that were 17 already in the case before they filed their amended complaint?

18 THE COURT: I don't know about that. What do you 19 have to say to that, Babbitt?

20 MR. BABBITT: I'm not sure I quite understood. Can 21 you say it again?

22 MR. BANOWIT: Yeah. If you're saying we're going to 23 go forward on something, what is the something? What I 24 understand is what has now changed is two things.

25 THE COURT: I think I've got this. Whatever 15

1 discovery and whatever ESI and whatever we've got going, we're 2 not stopping. We're moving ahead with whatever we already 3 know exists.

4 Now, as we start talking about weSLICE again, I 5 fully appreciate your argument that there needs to be an 6 amendment and you get a chance to respond and there's motions
7 to dismiss. But we are putting our foot on the gas pedal. So 8 those deadlines about the ESI order and those things that are 9 in it, I'm not changing those deadlines. But as of right now, 10 as of today, before September 5th, all those still apply.
11 Keep your foot on the gas pedal.

12 MR. BANOWIT: To the issues that were already in the 13 case, not the -- what they added in their supplemental 14 contentions or what they added in their motion to amend that 15 you only today permitted?

16 THE COURT: True.

17 MR. BANOWIT: Okay.

18 THE COURT: Keep our foot on the gas pedal what 19 we've got.

20 MR. BANOWIT: Thank you.

21 MR. BABBITT: I just want to make sure to clarify 22 that defendants aren't -- you're not limiting the scope of 23 what we've already done? We're moving forward with the 24 deadlines we already have. The weSLICE allegations were 25 already in the case. They moved for a motion to strike that

1 you denied. The weSLICE was an ESI term. They don't get to 2 get rid of that term. You've already ordered us to do that 3 stuff; so we're moving forward on what was in the case as of 4 today.

5 THE COURT: WeSLICE -- we're going to get to weSLICE 6 in discovery in this case because that's part and parcel of 7 where we're at in this discovery dispute.

8 I'm just saying that we had all these deadlines in 9 place before we got here, including those in the ESI about 10 trading information, including the term "weSLICE." But you're 11 going to add all these in your claims and that also -- that 12 means contentions and back and forth. And we're going to 13 dramatically shave those deadlines because it's just one 14 additional piece, not a whole bunch of -- it's not -- well, 15 it's one additional piece.

16 We're going to really finish the discovery we've 17 got, and we're going to add this weSLICE. And we're going to 18 get it done in 2024.

19 MR. BABBITT: So we're not slowing down or staying 20 any --

21 THE COURT: Let's talk about discovery as opposed to 22 asking me contention questions.

23 So here's what we've got. Neither side fully 24 complied with my order, and that's okay. I've got a lot of 25 respect for you guys and the work that you've been doing and

1 how hard you've been working to get here, but it's got to 2 stop, right? We've got to get this thing done.

3 So I'm giving you each -- I think -- Ms. Wells, 4 would you agree that the synopsis of both of these memos is 5 that both parties believe that discovery hasn't been fully 6 completed as I've ordered? Jason is shaking his head 7 vehemently no.

8 MS. WELLS: I believe the party that submitted the 9 memo believes that. I strongly disagree with the allegations 10 in Provisur's memo, which obviously we didn't see until after 11 we had already submitted our memo. So we couldn't address 12 them.

13 THE COURT: So here's what we're going to do. You 14 guys each have one week. Get through these things.

15 Ms. Wells, you are intelligent and brilliant and 16 hardworking and honest and diligent. That's how I feel about 17 you, and you're my discovery person on the Weber side.

18 Mr. Babbitt, you're not all that, but you do pretty 19 good work. And I appointed both of you because I need 20 somebody, as I've talked about, at the mother-ship to drive 21 this stuff. Well, thank God Jason and Taylor are on this, and 22 somehow I have not as clearly communicated my desire to get 23 this thing done.

24 I'm tired of the posturing. I'm tired of the game 25 playing. All this has just worn me out, and it's probably

1 worn you out. And it's pretty clear it hasn't worn your 2 clients out. So we're done with it. You've got a week to get 3 back with me.

4 I'm getting the weekly emails. Thank you for doing
5 that. If after a week, you guys can't get this resolved, 6 resolve it by filing a motion for sanctions under Rule 37.
7 And I'm not telling you how it's going to work out because I 8 don't want to figure it out at this point.

9 What I want is for Jason and Taylor to communicate 10 clearly that this is done, that this is not how we're playing 11 it anymore, that I'm tired of the discovery fights. I'm tired 12 of all these fights. You are highly competent, really skilled 13 lawyers, as I saw in trial. And we are right back to where we 14 were before where we played tons of petty games getting us 15 here as opposed to the great lawyers that I saw in trial. And 16 that's disconcerting to me because I know when there's 12 17 citizens or eight citizens sitting in that box, you know how 18 to act. Both sides were great in trial and got to the issues.

19 Outside of the presence of those eight people, you 20 go right back to billing way too many hours, fighting way too 21 many discovery disputes. And so the only way I know now to 22 resolve it is to have due process, a Rule 37 sanction order.

23 And here's the bad part, Babbitt and Wells, your 24 names will be in it. And I don't want to -- and you're out of 25 state so I don't really care as much as I care about Jason and

1 Taylor. But nobody wants their name in a sanction order 2 because it gets drug up from here to eternity, and that is not 3 who I think you two are.

4 But we're going to discuss that you two are the 5 people in charge of discovery and it's failed. And I've 6 begged and pleaded. Have all the extra pages you want in your 7 Rule 37 motion for sanctions order, drag it all out, and spell 8 out the whole history of me begging for this to stop and that 9 you guys can't get it done.

10 Ms. Wells is going to say, oh, guess what, 11 Mr. Babbitt, you can't get it done and he's begged you several 12 times. Mr. Babbitt is going to say, Ms. Wells has been begged 13 to get it done and she can't get it done. Then I'm going to 14 have to write an order and pick one of them.

15 That is not what we want because you guys are great 16 lawyers, and somehow the message has not gotten through that 17 I'm done. And whatever nasty emails or phone calls or lack 18 thereof behind the scenes, I don't know what they are. But I 19 can only imagine if we're here at this time, once again, that 20 somebody didn't get the message.

21 And here's me go ahead and conjecturing some more,
22 speculating, conjecture, speculation, it ain't you, Ms. Wells.
23 It's somebody further up. And it ain't you, Babbitt. It's 24 somebody further up. So ask them -- tell them get the 25 transcript -- are you going to make me the sacrificial lamb

1 and get a Rule 37 discovery order against me that will be used 2 against me for the rest of my career?

3 Because one of you are going to get sanctioned 4 because I'm so sick of this. This is what -- if you guys are 5 billing out $700 to $1,200 an hour, you are good enough to get 6 discovery done in this case.

7 If we can somehow avoid having to keep coming back 8 to this because you've decided to make this a priority and 9 that neither Babbitt or Wells want to be made the sacrificial
10 lamb, then great. But I'm just done with the discovery 11 fights.

12 And you guys are good lawyers. You're good people.
13 You know how to do this. You're much smarter than I am on any 14 of these patent discovery issues, but we've got to get it 15 done.

16 Ms. Wells, anything you'd like to tell me?

17 MS. WELLS: I guess I would just appreciate a little 18 direction because -- I mean, you're right, obviously I don't 19 want to end up in a discovery sanction, but I wholeheartedly
20 believe we fully complied with the court's order. So --

21 THE COURT: So how about this: One week. You guys
22 have one week. You two and you two get together for one week 23 and say, okay, we jointly pissed him off, and he's done with 24 it, and somebody's going to get sanctioned. And I don't know 25 what else to do unless we want to drag in Yonan and Martin to

21

1 get back here. And maybe we can do that.

2 But my message and me trying to treat you like I
3 want you to treat each other has not gotten across, and if you 4 think everything's been done, well, then just stand up for it.
5 And I'll -- and if I agree, well, then guess what, it's 6 Babbitt. He'll go down.

7 I don't -- I mean, when you read all this, and I'm 8 trying to go back to the old transcripts and trying to figure 9 out everything, that is so not my job to be the special 10 discovery master on these cases. It's just not my job.

11 Somebody has got -- on your team has got to figure 12 it out, and maybe we'll throw Martin and Yonan in. And maybe 13 they don't care. I'm not trying to pick on you, Banowit. I'm 14 not sure where you're in this hierarchy. I like you a lot 15 too. I get the feeling that Yonan's the top of the ladder.

16 MR. BANOWIT: If you're addressing me, I'll respond 17 to something. I don't know where that all fits out, but I do 18 think one of the issues here that I see, which maybe you can 19 help with, is that I think the process of ruling on these 20 things informally, as we often do here, and sending them back 21 to make a decision still doesn't leave us with answers to 22 questions like is this something that needs to be produced or 23 not produced in the case. So they end up, you know, fighting 24 over those issues.

25 Or is what we did sufficient or not? They have

1 their own views but it's not resolved. You know, personally I 2 think what would help this case is to do some motions to 3 compel and actually give you the opportunity to rule on either
4 an issue of is this discoverable or not if that's the beef 5 between the parties, or is this sufficient or not?

6 THE COURT: So here's my problem: When I rule on 7 them here under Local Rule 37, it may not have the lengthy 8 motion to compel, but it's an order. And so if we're having 9 fights back and forth, whether it's sufficient or not or 10 whether it's discoverable or not, I don't think that there's 11 any doubt in my mind after these when I leave that I've 12 ordered discovery to be completed.

13 So what you're telling me is I'm vague, and I
14 appreciate the respectful way that you are telling me I need 15 to be more clear. And what I'm telling you is the way I'm 16 going to be more clear now is we're going to have motions for 17 sanctions because I think I'm clear enough, and I think that 18 Jason and Taylor have got whatever -- whatever my redneck or 19 more genteel Kansas City approach, I don't think I'm that 20 unclear. If I'm vague, well, then somebody needs to tell me 21 that day.

22 And I don't want to do motions to compel because we 23 have dragged this case out long enough, and the same rules of 24 civil procedure that have nonmandatory dates, I can change any 25 of those dates I want according to the U.S. Supreme Court and 1 Eighth Circuit case law. I think I've been clear enough.

2 So -- go ahead.

3 MR. BANOWIT: I'm not blaming this on you. I think 4 part of the problem is that it's the two pages you get are 5 really -- and the amount of time --

6 THE COURT: You can have five pages.

7 MR. BANOWIT: No. Just hear me out -- really don't 8 allow the parties to specify in detail what it is you can rule
9 on. If you remember our last discovery conference, the ruling 10 you made was, Okay, I'm going to do what's in paragraph 2 of 11 Weber's letter, and then they said, Well, we want to get 12 something too. You said, Okay, well, what is it? And they 13 just started throwing out interrogatory numbers. You said, 14 Well, okay, we'll throw those in.

15 Never even been outlined in the papers you received 16 what were the issues there and what was going on. And granted 17 even from their side, maybe the amount of stuff that was in 18 the two pages you got wasn't 100-percent clear. I think the 19 problem is that there's not enough, you know -- not enough 20 specificity to what is going on here. I really would feel 21 horrible for both of them if you sanctioned them when they 22 both think they did what they did, but the problem is no one 23 really understands what the requirement was.

24 So I really do feel like if I were in your position, 25 I would, you know, certainly encourage them to come back with

1 a proposal of how this is going to be done. But I think it 2 makes sense for you to have a full record of what it is that 3 is the problem so you can say, Well, I don't see that as a 4 problem, I think you did your job, or I think -- because to 5 rule on it substantively, not simply on a matter of I don't 6 care about the substance, you know, let me just hear the he 7 said, she said.

8 THE COURT: Here's the problem: Look at my ECF.
9 Look at the millions of dollars you've spent and you've spent 10 and the stuff that's been filed by both sides. You can have 11 five pages. I've never -- I never told you guys no for 12 anything that you've agreed on.

13 I think I have been extremely patient, but there has 14 been millions of pages filed in this case. So if you want 15 five pages to more spell it out in discovery dispute under 16 Local Rule 37, you can have it. I don't care. I'll give it 17 to you, and you know me, I'll read it.

18 But the problem isn't that you need more due process 19 or you need more pages, it's we've got to get this done, and 20 whatever's going on, delay on one side or the other seems to 21 be part of a strategy. And I'm done with that strategy. So 22 the strategy is to get it done at all costs, running over 23 timelines and deadlines to get it done in 2024.

24 So what I sincerely hope is that four reasonable 25 people can come together, how do we get this done so that

1 neither one of us files a motion for sanctions because Lord 2 knows I don't want to do that. I filed zero motions for 3 sanctions as a lawyer, zero, over the course of 20 years.
4 Zero. I want to have zero sanction orders. I've had one or 5 two, and I don't want anymore. I just want zero. I want 6 none.

7 And I want somebody, you -- there's too many names 8 here -- Mr. Babbitt, to find a reasonable solution. This is 9 on you. And nobody's more reasonable than Taylor. Figure out 10 how to make this not happen, and figure out how to -- you be 11 the person that makes this not happen. And whatever has to be 12 done to make it not happen, you do it, and you tell Craig that 13 you don't want to be his sacrificial lamb for screaming about 14 this stuff because honestly Craig was a total pain in my side 15 until trial.

16 So if I'm pointing fingers at your side, I think I'm 17 pointing at Craig, and I don't -- his name's on the door, 18 isn't it? So -- no? Taylor gave me a no. I can't keep track 19 of all your firms.

20 You be the one to figure out how to avoid this. You 21 be the one that can go back and say we figured out a solution 22 and we put it in our email that, you know, we met again, and 23 we got this and we're going to talk again many times and by 24 September 5th, we're going to have diametrically opposed 25 proposals about how to get it done in 2024.

1 But you both have heard that I don't care about any 2 of the deadlines that are set in the Federal Rules of Civil 3 Procedure or in the local rules. I understand they can be 4 amended under Eighth Circuit law, and I'm going to amend them.
5 And it makes much more sense if you two and you, Mr. Babbitt,
6 take the lead and you follow Taylor's leadership style instead 7 of Craig's leadership style to get that done.

8 MR. BABBITT: That's loud and clear, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Because that's Kansas City nice.

10 MR. BABBITT: Thank you. I will do everything I can 11 to make this work.

12 I think just to start, I'm happy to go in the hall
13 face to face, talk right after this. We're all in person.
14 Good time to do it.

15 THE COURT: You got anything else from the 16 plaintiff's side, Ms. Concannon-Hausmann?

17 MR. SIMON: Your Honor, may I?

18 THE COURT: You are not Ms. Concannon-Hausmann.

19 MR. SIMON: That's why I asked.

20 THE COURT: Are you the problem? You're kind of the 21 Craig of Husch Blackwell.

22 MR. SIMON: You're right. I will -- I'll stand with 23 Mr. Babbitt, I'll tell you that. If we ever walk down that 24 road, I will stand side by side with him. I'm not going to go 25 down everything I planned to say today, Judge, but I will

1 stand with Mr. Babbitt. We'll get this done.

2 Here's what I want to say, Your Honor, and I'm 3 looking at your courtroom deputy, Tracey Richard. We recently 4 got the news that I'm not going to say she's moving on to 5 bigger and better things, but she's moving on.

6 And it needs to be on the record here with your 7 other fantastic staff member Gayle as well as Ben, how much we 8 have for both parties, we appreciate everything that Tracey 9 did to keep this case going, to keep all of us from losing our 10 minds, and what an absolute pro she is at her job.

11 And on behalf of all of us, and I know that Don and 12 Jason and Deirdre would join, thank you, Tracey, for 13 everything you've done. I know it doesn't just happen in our 14 case. I know everything that you've done in this courtroom 15 and for this judge and for this courthouse has really been 16 first rate. It's been absolutely professional. It has been 17 everything a court should be, and this case in particular has 18 been extremely challenging for you and you've maintained not 19 only your professionalism and your competence in keeping 20 things between the guardrails but your good cheer and your 21 friendliness.

22 Just last night -- I understand that Friday is your 23 last day. Yesterday was a federal holiday. There were 24 filings being made yesterday, and at 4:30 yesterday afternoon
25 on a federal holiday, she's saying, Thank you, I've received

1 your filings.

2 That is noticed. It won't be forgotten. We all 3 wish you the very best from where you're going from here.

4 And, Judge, to you, I would say I can't imagine how 5 you're going to try and fill those shoes. I'm sure you will 6 do your best, and I'm sure the next person in line will do a 7 good job.

8 But, Tracey, you will be missed, and you have set 9 the standard that we all should try to aspire to. Thank you.

10 THE COURTROOM DEPUTY: Thank you very much.

11 MR. BANOWIT: Well said, Jeff. We agree with 12 everything, and you know how hard it is for us to do that.
13 You must know it's true. We certainly appreciate everything 14 as well. Thank you and good luck.

15 THE COURTROOM DEPUTY: Thank you. Thank you very 16 much.

17 THE COURT: We'll be in recess.
