213	21	Change “decision detective” to “Decision Detective” (capitalization of a proper name).
215	13	Put quotation marks around “out-of-band” (for clarity).
234	18	Change “PLL” to “PID” (to correct a typo).
240	15-16	Change “it is running the processor, part of it is running the software” to “it is running on the processor, part of it is running on the software” (to correct a typo).
247	20-21	Change “if it’s publishes, then it’s publishes; if it’s pushes, then it’s pushes” to “if it’s ‘publishes,’ then it’s ‘publishes’; if it’s ‘pushes,’ then it’s ‘pushes’” (to better represent Dr. Cameron’s spoken testimony).
253	11	Change “US Patent Trade Office” to “U.S. Patent and Trademark Office” (the correct name of the agency).
260	8	Change “in my claim” to “in my declaration” (for clarity).
261	25	Change “price spot” to “spot price” (to correct a typo).
288	16-17	Change “high-demand indicator” to “high power demand indicator” (for clarity and to be consistent with the ’243 patent’s language).
289	10	Change “environmentally friendliness” to “environmental friendliness” (to correct a grammatical error).
292	5	Change “would be -- one would be better -- quote, better than” to “would be -- one would be better -- quote, better, unquote, than” (to identify the end of a quotation).
294	18	Change “environmentally friendliness” to “environmental friendliness” (to correct a grammatical error).”

295	16-17	Change “environmentally friendliness” to “environmental friendliness” (to correct a grammatical error).
296	22	Change “could came up” to “could come up” (to correct a grammatical error).
306	2-3	Remove a hyphen from “the high-power demand indicator” (to be consistent with the ’243 patent’s language).
307	6	Remove a coma before “in view of” (no coma in the part of the Declaration from which Dr. Cameron is quoting).
307	9	Remove a semicolon and add a coma after “successful” (as the quote appears in the part of the Declaration from which Dr. Cameron is quoting).
307	10	Remove a coma after “otherwise” (as the quote appears in the Declaration from which Dr. Cameron is quoting).
307	11-12	Remove a line return between lines 11 and 12 and an opening quotation mark before “In other words” (because there is no paragraph break in the Declaration from which Dr. Cameron is quoting).
307	23	Remove a hyphen from “high-power demand indicator” (to be consistent with the ’243 patent’s language).
308	21-22	Change “high-demand power indicator” to “high power demand indicator” (to correct a typo).
311	10-11	Change “numerous places, in 86, 87, 88 of the IPR -- or the IPR” to “numerous places, in pdf pages 86, 87, 88 of the IPR petition -- or the petition” (to clarify to what pages of what document (discussing AESO) Dr. Cameron was referring).
313	18	Change “Talk to me -- I mean, how would I search that?” to “Talk? To me -- I mean, how would I search that?” (to better represent Dr. Cameron’s spoken testimony).
322	13	Remove a hyphen from “small-size” (because no hyphen is used in the quote as it appears in the ’243 patent).
322	15-16	Remove a line return between lines 15 and 16 and an opening quotation mark before “However” (because there is
