DECLARATION OF SHAWN GERDEMAN

Commissioner for Patents
P. O. Box 1450
Alexandria, VA 22313-1450

Sir:

I, Shawn Gerdeman, declare as follows:

1. I am currently a Product Manager at Unverferth Manufacturing Company, Inc. ("Unverferth").
2. I understand that the present application claims priority to U.S. Application No. 12/031,867, which issued as U.S. Patent No. 8,221,047 (the "'047 patent"). I understand that the '047 patent was filed on February 15, 2008 and claims priority to a provisional application, Provisional Application No. 60/901,321, which was filed on February 15, 2007.
3. I understand that Par-Kan Co. ("Par-Kan") alleged in a litigation involving the '047 patent, that the '047 patent is invalid as being publicly used, offered for sale or on sale prior to the critical date of the '047 patent, which I understand to be February 15, 2006. This declaration is intended to provide the United States Patent and Trademark Office with background information relating to Par-Kan's allegations.

Unverferth Exhibit 2034
Par-Kan v. Unverferth
IPR2024-01426

EXPERIMENTAL TESTING OF PROTOTYPE SEED TENDER UNITS

4. In 2005, Unverferth was developing a prototype seed tender product. The development work on this prototype seed tender product would form the basis for the '047 patent and the present application.

5. Prior to the completion of a first prototype seed tender unit, Unverferth hoped to find one or more farmers who would be willing to test the prototype unit once it was complete. To that end, I asked territory managers at Unverferth to reach out to Unverferth's existing dealers to see if they could help find a farmer who could adequately test a seed tender prototype, once it was created. I provided the territory managers with a description of the seed tender prototype, which was still under development. I also informed the territory managers that the goal was to provide a prototype unit to a farmer to test so that we could receive as much feedback as possible on the prototype unit. I told the territory managers that the placement of the prototype unit would be at no cost to the farmer and that the prototype units would be returned to Unverferth after the testing was completed.

6. Unverferth's territory managers were able to locate two dealers, Fillmore Equipment Co. ("Fillmore") and Holland & Sons Inc. ("Holland"), which were able to assist with the placement of prototype seed tender units with farmers. The dealers were also provided with a description of the prototype units they would be receiving. On or around January 20, 2006, I provided data to the accounting system at Unverferth to ensure that when the prototype units were completed, the prototype units would be shipped to the dealers so the units could be placed with farmers for testing. I provided the accounting system with the dealer information and shipping information so that Unverferth could properly track the delivery of the prototype units once they were shipped to the dealers.

7. Unverferth completed production of a first prototype seed tender unit in February of 2006. By April of 2006, at least two prototype seed tender units were completed. On or around April 13, 2006, a prototype seed tender unit was shipped from Unverferth to Fillmore. Similarly, on or around April 19, 2006, a prototype seed tender unit was shipped from Unverferth to Holland. After Fillmore and Holland received the prototype seed tender units, the seed tender units were delivered to two farmers for testing. The farmers tested the units from approximately April to June of 2006 during the spring planting season. Since the dealers (and farmers) did not receive the prototype seed tender units until April of 2006, they obviously did not use the prototype seed tender units on or before the critical date of February 15, 2006.

8. Shortly after the shipment of these two prototype seed tender units in April 2006, invoices were created to track the delivery of the seed tender units to the dealers. On April 17, 2006, an invoice was generated to track the shipment of the prototype seed tender unit to Fillmore. This invoice is attached to my declaration as Exhibit A. On April 20, 2006, an invoice was generated to track the shipment of the prototype seed tender unit to Holland. This invoice is attached to my declaration as Exhibit B.

9. Both of the invoices list an "order date" of January 20, 2006. This January 20, 2006 "order date" reflects the date when, as discussed above in Paragraph 6, I provided data to the accounting system at Unverferth to be able to track the shipment of the prototype units to Fillmore and Holland. At no time prior to January 20, 2006, or February 15, 2006, did either Fillmore or Holland place an order for the seed tender unit, which was just a prototype and not for sale. The April 2006 invoices also list a price for the seed tender unit. A price, however, was not discussed with either Fillmore or Holland prior to the placement of the prototype seed tender unit with them. Rather, the price was automatically generated and populated in the invoice at the time the invoice was created (i.e., on or around April 17, 2006 and April 20, 2006) by the accounting system. Therefore, Exhibit A and Exhibit B do not reflect an offer for sale or sale of a seed tender unit prior to the February 15, 2006 critical date, and there were no offers for sale or sales of the seed tender unit prior to that date.

10. After the invoices were sent to Fillmore and Holland in April 2006, the dealers called Unverferth's territory managers and asked why they received the invoices. Unverferth's territory managers instructed the dealers that the invoices were for tracking purposes only. Unverferth's territory managers further instructed the dealers not to pay the invoices, since these transactions were merely for testing purposes and were not sales of units.

11. While the units were being tested by the two farmers, I along with other Unverferth employees went to the farm locations to observe the testing of the prototype seed tender units. In both instances, the seed tender prototype units were not operating properly. Based on these observations, Unverferth redesigned various aspects of future seed tender products.

12. After the testing of the seed tender prototype units was completed, the seed tender prototype units were returned to Unverferth. To memorialize the return of these seed tender units, I along with Unverferth's accounting department arranged for the creation of credit memos. These credit memos were created to remove the charges from the initial invoices, which were in Unverferth's accounting system. The charges from the initial invoices remained in Unverferth's accounting system because the dealers never paid for the prototype seed tender units. A credit memo for the return of the seed tender prototype unit from Fillmore was created on June 7, 2006 and is attached as Exhibit C. A credit memo for the return of the seed tender prototype unit from Holland was created on July 27, 2006 and is attached as Exhibit D.

13. As set forth above, Unverferth did not sell or offer to sell seed tender units to Fillmore and/or Holland at any time prior to the February 15, 2006 critical date. Further, Fillmore and/or Holland did not use a seed tender unit prior to the February 15, 2006 critical date, nor was the seed tender otherwise publicly demonstrated prior to that date. Rather, Unverferth placed two seed tender prototype units with Fillmore and Holland for experimental testing in April of 2006.

UNVERFERTH'S SEED RUNNER TRADEMARK APPLICATION

14. I understand that Par-Kan has alleged that Unverferth's trademark application for the trademark "Seed Runner" is evidence of an invalidating prior use, offer for sale and/or sale of the invention claimed in the '047 patent. As explained in detail below, Unverferth did not use the "Seed Runner" brand name anywhere or in commerce prior to the February 15, 2006 critical date.

15. Unverferth markets and sells a loading and unloading seed tender under the brand name "Seed Runner." On February 28, 2013, Unverferth filed for a trademark for the mark "Seed Runner." In its trademark application, Unverferth mistakenly listed the "First Use Anywhere Date" as "At least as early as 02/01/2006." Also, in the trademark application, Unverferth mistakenly listed the "First Use in Commerce Date" as "At least as early as 02/01/2006."

16. In November of 2013, Unverferth became aware that the "First Use Anywhere Date" and "First Use in Commerce Date" in its initial "Seed Runner" trademark application were incorrect. Accordingly, on November 25, 2013, Unverferth submitted a Request for Certificate of Correction of its Trademark Application ("Request"). A copy of the Request is attached as Exhibit E. In the Request, Unverferth's Advertising Manager, Jerold Ecklund, explained that "[t]he previous dates recited when the application was filed were incorrect." The Request further sought the amendment of the First Use and First Use in Commerce dates to February 15, 2006.

17. I have been informed that Mr. Ecklund provided the initial February 1, 2006 date in error, because he misremembered the date of the National Farm Machinery Show in Louisville Kentucky in 2006. Unverferth's first use and first use in commerce of the "Seed Runner" trademark was at the National Farm Machinery Show in Louisville, Kentucky. The first day of the show was February 15, 2006, not February 1, 2006. Accordingly, the trademark "Seed Runner" was not used in commerce, or anywhere, prior to February 15, 2006.

I hereby declare that all statements made herein of my own knowledge are true and that all statements made on information and belief are believed to be true, and further that these statements are made with the knowledge that willful false statements and the like so made are punishable by fine or imprisonment or both, under Section 1001 of Title 18 of the United States Code and that such willful false statements may jeopardize the validity of the application or any patent issued thereon.
