

Devices Serial Number Full Guide

Please select your device below

iPhone

Samsung

Google

Windows

Android

Kindle Fire

iPad

Microsoft Tablet

Chrome Tablet

Samsung Tablet

Android Tablet

Macbook

Windows Laptop

Chromebook

Desktop
(all-in-one)

CPU Tower

Keyboard

Monitor

Mouse

TV

How to Find your Google Pixel Phone Serial Number

Your Google Pixel's serial number is essential for proving your ownership of the phone. You might need to know your serial number to unlock the phone, establish the warranty status or file a police report if your smartphone is stolen.

Many people forget to note their serial number when they first purchase their Google Pixel phone, but there are plenty of easy ways to find it.

Finding Your Google Pixel's Serial Number

1. On the Original Packaging

The easiest way to check your Google Pixel's serial number is to look for the sticker on the back of the original packaging. It's generally a good idea to retain the packaging when you buy a new smartphone or write the serial number down somewhere safe before discarding it.

2. On the Outside of the Phone

Phone won't turn on? The good news is that your Google Pixel phone may also have the serial number printed inside the SIM card tray.

3. In the Settings

However, if you can't get your hands on the original box, you can still find your Google Pixel's serial number on the phone itself. Open the phone's settings, tap "Device Information," then tap "Status." There, you can find your phone's serial number.

Can You Find Your Google Pixel Serial Number Without the Phone?

You can still access your Google Pixel's serial number without the phone in your hand if it's lost or stolen. Begin by signing into your Google Dashboard account on a computer and clicking on the Android arrow. This will provide a list of all the Android devices linked to your account, including their serial numbers. Locate your Google Pixel phone on the list and make a note of the serial number.

Should You Share the Serial Number?

It's usually best to avoid sharing serial numbers with others. Someone could use your serial number to pretend to be the owner of your phone, allowing them to access free services or to request a fraudulent repair or replacement.

There are some situations when it's OK to share your serial number. For example, a repair technician may require the number to check your phone's warranty, or you may need to give it to the police if someone steals your phone. However, it's wise to abstain from posting your serial number online, such as on a selling site like eBay.

What's an IMEI or MEID?

The "IMEI" stands for International Mobile Equipment Identity, which is another name for your Google Pixel's serial number. These numbers are 15 digits long. A 14-digit MEID number is another type of serial number, with "MEID" standing for Mobile Equipment Identifier. Whether you have an IMEI or MEID number depends on your carrier.

HomeServe is an independent company separate from your local utility or community.

Have you tried the HomeServe App yet?

About us

Who we are

Customer promise

Leadership

Our social impact

Blog

Press room

Careers

Commitment

Benefits

Career opportunities

Become a service provider

Partnerships

How it works

Partner with us

Our trusted partners

Innovative products

Contact us

For support, call:

1-855-336-2465

Web support

1-888-752-6740

Need help? Email us.

FAQs

COVID-19

Privacy Policy California Privacy Notice Terms of Use Accessibility Statement Manage Cookies Your Privacy Choices

HOMESERVE®, the HOMESERVE Design® and HOMESERVE USA® are trademarks of HomeServe USA Corp. All third party entity names and logos are trademarks or registered trademarks of their respective holders.

© Copyright 2023 HomeServe USA. All rights reserved

Corporate office: 601 Merritt 7, Norwalk, CT 06851
Red Oak, Ellis County, TX, US

Sign up for HomeServe emails.

Get the latest news, tips and promotional messages, including special offers.

Enter email address

Sign up!

