Re: Credo Patents and Active Electrical Cables

Dear Jim:

Congratulations on your recent appointment. I am contacting you about a letter Amphenol received in September 2023 from McCurdy Laud, a firm presenting themselves as acting on behalf of Credo Technology Group, Ltd. and Credo Semiconductor, Inc. That letter listed eleven Credo patents and requested information about Amphenol's Active Electrical Cables.

My team attempted to engage with McCurdy, addressing both patent and trademark issues, but there has been no communication from McCurdy since December 2023. As a result, we assume this matter has concluded. If Credo does not regard this matter as concluded, Amphenol would need to respond to the threat implied in McCurdy's letter, which would involve significant time and expense for each of us. Therefore, before taking any proactive steps, I am contacting you for confirmation that this matter is definitively and permanently closed.

If you think a discussion is warranted, I can coordinate a meeting between our respective business and legal teams. Given the opportunities for synergy between Credo's and Amphenol's businesses, I am optimistic that such a discussion would be constructive and lead to an amicable resolution of this matter.

Either way, I would appreciate a prompt reply confirming Credo's position on this matter. If you have any questions or comments, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Very truly yours,

Lance D'Amico
Senior Vice President, Secretary and General Counsel, Amphenol Corporation
