Frequently Asked Questions:

1. Can I collaborate with friends/classmates on homework? No. Learning machine design requires independent thinking. While it may be helpful to discuss basic concepts, principles, and solution methods with your peers, you must carry out the work independently, and present your own work in homework assignments.
2. Can I submit a late homework? No. Homework assignments are a very important part of this class. Doing homework assignments sincerely and on time will help you understand the subject matters and prepare for the exams.
3. Can you move the exam date? No. The exam date cannot be moved. There will be no make-up/alternative for missed exams. If you have a valid reason for not being able to take an exam you need to discuss it with me prior to the exam.
4. I did not do well in the exams. Can I do a project to earn extra credits? No, unfortunately. The purpose of this class is to develop a background in dynamics and to learn using these tools in various areas of engineering. This can only be achieved through sufficient practice and evaluated through exams.
5. I don't have the basics of what you are teaching (e.g. I don't remember free-body diagrams). Can you please go over the stuff that I don't remember? No. This is a required course for mechanical engineering and civil engineering students. If you don't remember the materials covered in the prerequisites, you are expected to do a fair amount of self-studying.
6. I did very poorly on my first exam. The drop date is approaching. Should I drop the course, or do you think I can pass this course by doing well on the second and the third exams? I don't know. It depends on you and your classmates.
7. I think you were too strict in grading this exam and I feel I deserve extra 2 points on this question. Would you please re-consider it? No. Grading standards is uniform throughout the class. If my grading has been harsh on your exam, it has been so for your peers.

Academic Honesty Policy

High ethical standards are critical to the integrity of any institution, and bear directly on the ultimate value of conferred degrees. All UH community members are expected to contribute to an atmosphere of the highest possible ethical standards. Maintaining such an atmosphere requires that any instances of academic dishonesty be recognized and addressed. The UH Academic Honesty Policy is designed to handle those instances with fairness to all parties involved: the students, the instructors, and the University itself. All students and faculty of the University of Houston are responsible for being familiar with this policy.

Title IX/Sexual Misconduct

Per the UHS Sexual Misconduct Policy, your instructor is a responsible employee for reporting purposes under Title IX regulations and state law and must report incidents of sexual misconduct (sexual harassment, non-consensual sexual contact, sexual assault, sexual exploitation, sexual intimidation, intimate partner violence, or stalking) about which they become aware to the Title IX office. Please know there are places on campus where you can make a report in confidence. You can find more information about resources on the Title IX website.

Excused Absence Policy

Regular class attendance, participation, and engagement in coursework are important contributors to student success. Absences may be excused as provided in the University of Houston Undergraduate Excused Absence Policy and Graduate Excused Absence Policy for reasons including: medical illness of student or close relative, death of a close family member, legal or government proceeding that a student is obligated to attend, recognized professional and educational activities where the student is presenting, and University-sponsored activity or athletic competition. Under these policies, students with excused absences will be provided with an opportunity to make up any quiz, exam or other work that contributes to the course grade or a satisfactory alternative. Please read the full policy for details regarding reasons for excused absences, the approval process, and extended absences. Additional policies address absences related to military service, religious holy days, pregnancy and related conditions, and disability.

Recording of Class

Students may not record all or part of class, livestream all or part of class, or make/distribute screen captures, without advanced written consent of the instructor. If you have or think you may have a disability such that you need to record class-related activities, please contact the Justin Dart, Jr. Student Accessibility Center. If you have an accommodation to record class-related activities, those recordings may not be shared with any other student, whether in this course or not, or with any other person or on any other platform. Classes may be recorded by the instructor. Students may use instructors recordings for their own studying and notetaking. Instructors recordings are not authorized to be shared with anyone without the prior written approval of the instructor. Failure to comply with requirements regarding recordings will result in a disciplinary referral to the Dean of Students Office and may result in disciplinary action.
