Handcrafted for the Professional Photographer

"If you're looking for a camera strap that will meet the needs of a working professional, you found it. I've been using the Wapiti Strap for 20 years and have never seen any other strap that is as comfortable and last as long as the Wapiti Strap."

I crafted the Wapiti Strap from strong nylon webbing with a shoulder pad made of Montana Elk leather. The wapiti hide allows you to hang a heavy camera off of your neck for extended periods of time with comfort. The leather soaks up sweat during those hot summer ball games and won't allow the camera to slide off the shoulder of a slippery winter coat."

~ David Grubbs, Photojournalist

Like a comfortable pair of gloves, the Wapiti Strap gets better with age.

Congratulations! You've finally found the strap your job demands:

The Wapiti Strap.

Specifications

- Made of strong nylon webbing.
- Shoulder pad made of genuine Montana elk hide (international orders made of cow hide).
- The new Bugle strap is adjustable from 32 to 50 inches in length.
- The N1 strap is non-adjustable and has a split ring connection.
- The C1 strap is also non-adjustable and has a strap type camera connection.
- The N1 and C1 straps must be ordered by specific lengths. These straps are by far the best choice. There is no fussing with extra straps to tuck in or cut off.
- If you like the length of your old strap just measure it from connection to connection and order that length.
- General sizes are 32, 36, and 40 inch but any length can be custom made with no extra charge. General sizes are in stock and will ship sooner than custom lengths.
