

Wi-Fi and connectivity

Inflight Wi-Fi

Upgraded, high-speed Wi-Fi is available to buy on select domestic flights. Browse the internet, check emails and stream video services like Netflix, Hulu and HBO faster than ever before.

To see what's on your flight, check your boarding pass or online ahead of time.

How to connect to Wi-Fi

Phone or tablet:

1. Enable airplane mode and connect to the 'aainflight.com' Wi-Fi signal
2. If you're not redirected, open a browser and enter aainflight.com

Laptop:

1. Connect to the 'aainflight.com' Wi-Fi signal
2. If you're not redirected, open a browser and enter aainflight.com

Pricing

You can always access aa.com for free during your flight.

Pay as you fly

Wi-Fi is available on almost all routes for as little as $10.

Pay monthly or annually

If you fly often, you can buy a monthly or annual American Airlines Wi-Fi Subscription Plan for up to 2 devices.

Monthly:

- 1-device - $49.95
- 2-device - $59.95

Annual:

- 1-device - $599
- 2-device - $699

To buy an American Airlines Wi-Fi Subscription Plan, you must:

- Be an AAdvantage® member
- Have an email address saved in your AAdvantage® account
- Have a credit card with a U.S. billing address saved in your AAdvantage® account

Onboard power

Most of our planes have AC power outlets and/or USB power ports, and we're in the process of installing even more access to power on other planes.

Phones and electronic devices

You can use your cell phone, laptop and other electronic devices onboard until advised by the flight crew, but phone calls aren't allowed during flight.

Please keep these things in mind during taxi, takeoff and landing:

- Put small devices in airplane mode and either hold or place the device under your seat
- Laptops, virtual reality headsets and other large items cannot be held and should be turned off and put away
