UNITED STATES PATENT AND TRADEMARK OFFICE

BEFORE THE PATENT TRIAL AND APPEAL BOARD

AVIDBOTS CORP. and AVIDBOTS USA CORP.,
Petitioners,

v.

BRAIN CORPORATION,
Patent Owner

Case No. IPR2025-01602
US Patent No. 10,275,325

PATENT OWNER'S MOTION FOR PROTECTIVE ORDER

LIST OF EXHIBITS

Exhibit No.	Description
2001	Proposed Protective Order
2002	Redlined Protective Order

Pursuant to 37 C.F.R. § 42.54 and the Board's authorization on December 29, 2025, Patent Owner Brain Corporation hereby moves for entry of the proposed protective order attached hereto as EX2001. A redlined version of the proposed protective order showing the changes compared to the Board's default protective order is attached hereto as EX2002. Patent Owner hereby certifies that it has conferred with Petitioners Avidbots Corp. and Avidbots USA Corp. ("Petitioners") and Petitioners have agreed to the terms of the proposed protective order.

I. GOOD CAUSE EXISTS FOR ENTRY OF A PROTECTIVE ORDER

Good cause exists for entry of the proposed protective order because Patent Owner intends to submit with its Discretionary Denial Brief and Preliminary Response documents produced by Petitioner in the related civil action, Brain Corp. v. Avidbots Corp. et al., No. 24-cv-12569 (N.D. Ill.). The documents are relevant at least to the settled expectations between the parties and objective indicia of nonobviousness. But Petitioner designated them as confidential and/or highly confidential in the related civil action. Petitioner has not consented to de-designate the documents. Thus, a protective order is necessary to present the evidence to the Board. Petitioner may also submit its own confidential or highly confidential internal engineering documents that are also relevant at least to objective indicia of nonobviousness.

Further, good cause exists to enter the proposed protective order because the parties have agreed on its terms and the modifications to the default protective order are consistent with the integrity and efficient administration of this proceeding. See Trial Practice Guide, Appendix B, Section (j) ("The Board will consider changes agreed to by the parties, and generally will accept such proposed changes if they are consistent with the integrity and efficient administration of the proceedings.").

The proposed protective order differs from the Board's default protective order in two ways: (1) the addition of a HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL – ATTORNEYS' EYES ONLY level of confidentiality (Sections 2-3), and (2) the addition of a provision that neither party will oppose a request to expunge confidential information after final disposition of the proceedings (Section 8). See Exhibit B. The Trial Practice Guide provides that the "Board will presumptively accept agreed-to changes that provide additional categories of confidentiality as long as they are reasonable and adequately define what types of materials are to be included in the additional categories." Trial Practice Guide, Appendix B, Section (j). Here, the proposed protective order is reasonable and defines the types of information to be included within the HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL – ATTORNEYS' EYES ONLY category. See EX2002 at Sections 2-3. Further, the parties' agreement not to oppose future requests to expunge confidential information after final disposition is a streamlining provision.

Accordingly, Patent Owner respectfully requests entry of the proposed protective order attached as EX2001.

Respectfully submitted,

KNOBBE, MARTENS, OLSON & BEAR, LLP
