Avidbots reserves the right to add or remove claim terms from those proposed for construction, and to amend or supplement these proposed constructions including in response to Brain Corporation’s (“Brain’s”) proposed constructions, as a result of the meet and confer process with Brain, and/or as discovery continues. By proposing a construction for a claim term, or failing to propose a construction for a claim term, phrase, or clause, Avidbots in no way admits that construction is required, not required, or possible.

The claim numbers identified above are representative. Unless otherwise indicated, identification of a proposed construction also applies to the instances of that term, phrase, or clause in any of the asserted claims that are dependent on the claims identified. Avidbots reserves the right to seek construction of a smaller component of the term, phrase, or clause proposed for claim construction, and the right to seek construction of terms, phrases, or clauses that includes the term, phrase, or clause proposed for claim construction including for context.

With respect to the patents asserted by Avidbots against Brain (U.S. Patent Nos. 10,206,550, 10,667,664, 11,510,545, 11,531,347, and 11,844,474), Avidbots does not submit any claim terms, phrases, or clauses for construction at this time but reserves the right to add claim terms for construction, and to propose constructions in response to any term that Brain may identify, as a result of the meet and confer process with Brain, and/or as discovery continues.
