42. The products described and identified in preceding paragraphs numbered 39 through 41 are referred to herein as the "Accused Products."

43. The Accused Products infringe one or more claims of each Patent-in-Suit via several features and associated functionalities including, but not limited to, Google's Nearby Share/Quick Share, Fast Pair, and Find Hub (previously known as Find My) features.

44. On information and belief, Defendant has had knowledge of the Patents-in-Suit and of its infringement of the Patents-in-Suit at least through receipt or knowledge of SCT's Original Complaint in Secure Communication Technologies, LLC v. Samsung Electronics Co., Ltd. et al., No. 2:24-cv-00484-JRG in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Texas (the "Samsung Case") and/or through receipt or knowledge of SCT's Infringement Contentions in the Samsung Case, in which SCT identified how the Accused Products in that case (including products that utilize Google's Android operating system) infringe claims of the Patents-in-Suit. Alternatively, Defendant has had knowledge of the Patents-in-Suit, and its infringement of the Patents-in-Suit, at least since sometime before July 2, 2025, when Defendant filed IPR Nos. 2025-01181, -1182, and -1183, challenging the validity of certain of the Patents-in-Suit and referencing the Samsung Case.

45. Defendant was aware of Mr. James Proctor Jr., the co-inventor of the Patents-in-Suit, prior to the filing of this lawsuit via Mr. Proctor's expert work and his prior dealings with Defendant.

46. In addition, Defendant was aware of the '749 Patent at least as of February 9, 2012, when Mr. Proctor informed Defendant of the existence of the '749 Patent, other patents related to the '749 Patent, and their relevance to Defendant and Defendant's products. See Exhibit 6.

In addition, Defendant was aware of U.S. Patent No. 8,090,359 ("the '359 Patent") at least as of February 9, 2012, when Mr. Proctor informed Defendant of the existence of the '359 Patent, other patents related to the '359 Patent, and their relevance to Defendant and Defendant's products. See Id. The '918, '344, '971, and '685 Patents-in-Suit all claim priority, as continuation applications, to the '359 Patent. In other words, Defendant has had knowledge of the disclosures of the '918, '344, '971, and '685 Patents-in-Suit since at least February 9, 2012, when Defendant learned of the '359 Patent.

48. In addition, Defendant has had knowledge of the '749 Patent and other patents related to the Patents-in-Suit via their disclosure during Defendant's patent prosecution activities. For example, Defendant disclosed the '749 Patent during the prosecution of U.S. Patent Application No. 13/716,675 (which issued as U.S. Patent No. 9,185,148) via a December 17, 2012 Information Disclosure Statement submitted to the United States Patent and Trademark Office ("USPTO"). Defendant also cited U.S. Patent Application Publication No. 2010/0061294 (an application which issued as U.S. Patent No. 7,936,736) during the prosecution of U.S. Patent Application No. 12/969,291 (which issued as U.S. Patent No. 8,364,172) via a May 3, 2012 Information Disclosure Statement. Defendant also cited U.S. Patent Application Publication No. 2010/0061294 during the prosecution of U.S. Patent Application No. 13/738,384 (which issued as U.S. Patent No. 8,923,831) via a May 7, 2014 Information Disclosure Statement. Defendant also cited U.S. Patent Application Publication No. 2011/0300802 (an application which issued as U.S. Patent No. 8,369,842) during the prosecution of U.S. Patent Application No. 17/305,266 (which issued as U.S. Patent No. 11,395,356) via a July 2, 2021 Information Disclosure Statement.

49. On information and belief, Defendant employs a global team of individuals responsible for Defendant's patent matters, including portfolio development and counseling, patent review and analysis, patent monitoring and tracking, and patent licensing and acquisitions.

50. On information and belief, Defendant's internal legal team consists of over 900 lawyers, a substantial portion of which are tasked with, and focus on, patent matters, including patent review and analysis, patent monitoring and tracking, and patent licensing and acquisitions. This is in addition to Defendant's substantial external legal team that also supports and counsels Defendant on patent related matters.

51. Further discovery may reveal earlier knowledge of one or more of the Patents-in-Suit, which would provide additional evidence of Defendant's willful infringement of the Patents-in-Suit.

52. All of the asserted claims of the Patents-in-Suit claim patent-eligible subject matter under 35 U.S.C. § 101.

53. Each Patent-in-Suit claims priority to one or more provisional applications filed as early as September 8, 2008.

54. Each Patent-in-Suit claims priority to one or more non-provisional applications filed as early as February 3, 2009.

55. The inventions claimed in each asserted claim in each Patent-in-Suit are entitled to an invention date at least as early as September 8, 2008.

56. In the alternative, the inventions claimed in each asserted claim in each Patent-in-Suit are entitled to an invention date at least as early as February 3, 2009.

57. None of the asserted claims of the Patents-in-Suit claims are directed to an abstract idea, and each such claim is thus patent-eligible under 35 U.S.C. § 101.

58. While devices such as smartphones, tablets, and other wireless devices are ubiquitous in today's world, the state of such technologies was much different in the September 2008 to February 2009 time period. The iPhone was released in 2007, and the iPad was released in 2010. Google did not release its first smartphone (the Nexus One) until January 2010.

59. The inventions in the Patents-in-Suit were years ahead of the release of the accused products and functionalities. For example, on information and belief, Google's Nearby Share feature was not released until 2020, Google's Fast Pair feature was not released until 2017, and Google's Find Hub feature was not released until 2013.

60. In addition, the inventions of the Patents-in-Suit were appreciably before the release of version 4.0 of the Bluetooth specification (the first version to include Bluetooth Low Energy), which was released in 2010.

61. Each of the asserted claims of the Patents-in-Suit is directed to addressing specific technological problems in wireless devices and recite specific technological improvements to such wireless devices.

SCT Exhibit 2017
IPR2026-00099

62. Each of the asserted claims of the Patents-in-Suit contain inventive concepts such that they are patent-eligible under 35 U.S.C. § 101.

63. None of the asserted claims of the Patents-in-Suit recite subject matter that, taken as a whole, was well-understood, routine, or conventional in the September 2008 to February 2009 time period.

64. Google's own patent filings show that none of the asserted claims of the Patents-in-Suit were well-understood, routine, or conventional in the September 2008 to February 2009 time period. For example, Google filed the application leading to U.S. Patent No. 9,961,494 in August 2012 and European Patent Application EP2885571A1 in July 2013, both entitled "Sharing content with nearby devices."

65. Defendant's acts of infringement have caused damage to SCT. SCT is entitled to recover from Defendant the damages sustained by SCT as a result of Defendant's wrongful acts in an amount subject to proof at trial.

66. For each count of infringement listed below, SCT incorporates and re-states the allegations contained in the preceding paragraphs above, including these General Allegations, as if fully set forth in each count of infringement.

COUNT I – INFRINGEMENT OF THE '749 PATENT

67. SCT incorporates herein the allegations made in paragraphs 1 through 66.

68. Defendant has directly infringed one or more claims of the '749 Patent, including, for example, claim 1, in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(a) by making, using, selling, offering for sale, and/or importing into the United States infringing products including, but not limited to, the Accused Products.

69. An exemplary claim chart demonstrating Defendant's infringement of the '749 Patent is attached as Exhibit 7 and incorporated herein by reference.

70. Additionally, Defendant has indirectly infringed the ’749 Patent in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(b) at least by inducing customers to purchase the Accused Products and/or by instructing customers how to use the Accused Products in a way that directly infringes at least claim 1 of the ’749 Patent.

71. Defendant has had knowledge of the ’749 Patent and of its infringement of the ’749 Patent at least as of February 9, 2012. See Exhibit 6. Alternatively, Defendant has had knowledge of the ’749 Patent and of its infringement of the ’749 at least via Defendant’s disclosure of the ’749 Patent during Defendant’s prosecution of U.S. Patent Application No. 13/716,675 (which issued as U.S. Patent No. 9,185,148) via a December 17, 2012 Information Disclosure Statement. Alternatively, on information and belief, Defendant has had knowledge of the ’749 Patent and of its infringement of the ’749 Patent at least through receipt or knowledge of SCT’s Original Complaint in the Samsung Case and/or through receipt or knowledge of SCT’s Infringement Contentions in the Samsung Case. Alternatively, Defendant has had knowledge of the ’749 Patent, and its infringement of the ’749 Patent, at least since sometime before July 2, 2025, when Defendant filed IPR2025-01181, 1182, and 1103, challenging the validity of the `918 Patent, the ’344 Patent, and the ’971 Patent, respectively (each of which is related to the ’749 Patent) and referencing the Samsung Case. Alternatively, Defendant has had knowledge of the ’749 Patent and of its infringement of the ’749 Patent at least through receipt of this First Amended Complaint.

72. On information and belief, despite Defendant’s knowledge of the ’749 Patent and of its infringement of the ’749 Patent, Defendant has not sought to remedy its infringement or sought to identify any good faith belief as to why it does not infringe the ’749 Patent.

73. On information and belief, Defendant’s actions represented a specific intent to induce infringement of at least claim 1 of the ’749 Patent. For example, Defendant offered its customers extensive customer support and instructions that instructed and encouraged its customers to infringe the '749 Patent via at least their use of the Accused Products. See, e.g., materials cited in Exhibit 7; https://support.google.com/android/answer/15992026?hl=en, https://support.google.com/android/answer/3265955?hl=en, and https://support.google.com/android/answer/6160491?hl=en-GB#:~:text=If%20you%20lose%20an%20Android,Is%20visible%20on%20Google%20Play (exemplar Find Hub support pages).

74. In addition, by receiving notice of the '749 Patent and Defendant's infringement thereof, Defendant obtained a subjective belief that there is a high probability that the Accused Products infringe the '749 Patent. Despite being put on notice of infringement, on information and belief Defendant has not taken actions to avoid the conduct alleged to infringe, has not offered any reasons as to why Defendant does not infringe the '749 Patent, and has not sought to remedy its infringements by offering to take a license. Defendant's failure to act reflects deliberate actions to avoid learning that the Accused Products infringe the '749 Patent and, more generally, a policy of not earnestly reviewing and respecting the intellectual property of others.

75. Since issuance of the '749 Patent, and prior to Defendant having notice of infringement, neither SCT nor its predecessors or licensees have made, offered for sale, sold, or imported a product that practices any claim of the '749 Patent or that would otherwise require marking under 35 U.S.C. § 287.

76. SCT may recover pre-suit damages for Defendant's infringement of the '749 Patent under 35 U.S.C. § 287.

77. As a result of Defendant's infringement of the '749 Patent, SCT has suffered and is owed monetary damages adequate to compensate it for the infringement under 35 U.S.C. § 284, but in no event less than a reasonable royalty.

78. Defendant's activities have been willful, egregious, wanton, and deliberate in disregard to SCT's rights, justifying a finding of willful infringement, enhanced damages under 35 U.S.C. § 284 and attorneys' fees and costs incurred in prosecuting this action under 35 U.S.C. § 285.

COUNT II – INFRINGEMENT OF THE '918 PATENT

79. SCT incorporates herein the allegations made in paragraphs 1 through 78.

80. Defendant has directly infringed one or more claims of the '918 Patent, including, for example, claims 1 and 9, in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(a) by making, using, selling, offering for sale, and/or importing into the United States infringing products including, but not limited to, the Accused Products.

81. Exemplary claim charts demonstrating Defendant's infringement of the '918 Patent are attached as Exhibits 8-10 and incorporated herein by reference.

82. Additionally, Defendant has indirectly infringed the '918 Patent in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(b) at least by inducing customers to purchase the Accused Products and/or by instructing customers how to use the Accused Products in a way that directly infringes at least claims 1 and 9 of the '918 Patent.

83. On information and belief, as discussed supra, Defendant has had, or should have had, knowledge of the '918 Patent as of May 17, 2022, the date the '918 Patent issued, based on Defendant's knowledge of related patents and publications, including but not limited to, the '359

Patent, the '749 Patent, and U.S. Patent Application Publication Nos. 2010/0061294 and 2011/0300802.

84. Alternatively, on information and belief, Defendant has had knowledge of the '918 Patent and of its infringement of the '918 Patent at least through receipt or knowledge of SCT's Original Complaint in the Samsung Case and/or through receipt or knowledge of SCT's Infringement Contentions in the Samsung Case, in which SCT identified how the Accused Products in that case (including products that utilize Google's Android operating system) infringe claims of the '918 Patent. Alternatively, Defendant has had knowledge of the `918 Patent, and its infringement of the `918 Patent, at least since sometime before July 2, 2025, when Defendant filed IPR2025-01181 challenging the validity of the `918 Patent and referencing the Samsung Case. Alternatively, Defendant has had knowledge of the `918 Patent, and its infringement of the `918 Patent, through the filing of SCT's Original Complaint in this case. Alternatively, Defendant has had knowledge of the '918 Patent and of its infringement of the '918 Patent at least through receipt of the Original Complaint in this matter, which was filed on August 4, 2025.

85. On information and belief, despite Defendant's knowledge of the '918 Patent and of its infringement of the '918 Patent, Defendant has not sought to remedy its infringement or sought to identify any good faith belief as to why it does not infringe the '918 Patent.

86. On information and belief, Defendant's actions represented a specific intent to induce infringement of at least claims 1 and 9 of the '918 Patent. For example, Defendant offered its customers extensive customer support and instructions that instructed and encouraged its customers to infringe the '918 Patent via at least their use of the Accused Products. See, e.g., materials cited in Exhibits 8-10; https://support.google.com/android/answer/9286773?hl=en and https://support.google.com/android/answer/15728591?hl=en (exemplar support pages for Quick

87. In addition, by receiving notice of the '918 Patent and Defendant's infringement thereof, Defendant obtained a subjective belief that there is a high probability that the Accused Products infringe the '918 Patent. Despite being put on notice of infringement, on information and belief Defendant has not taken actions to avoid the conduct alleged to infringe, has not offered any reasons as to why Defendant does not infringe the '918 Patent, and has not sought to remedy its infringements by offering to take a license. Defendant's failure to act reflects deliberate actions to avoid learning that the Accused Products infringe the '918 Patent and, more generally, a policy of not earnestly reviewing and respecting the intellectual property of others.

88. Since issuance of the '918 Patent, and prior to Defendant having notice of infringement, neither SCT nor its predecessors or licensees have made, offered for sale, sold, or imported a product that practices any claim of the '918 Patent or that would otherwise require marking under 35 U.S.C. § 287.

89. SCT may recover pre-suit damages for Defendant's infringement of the '918 Patent under 35 U.S.C. § 287.

90. As a result of Defendant's infringement of the '918 Patent, SCT has suffered and is owed monetary damages adequate to compensate it for the infringement under 35 U.S.C. § 284, but in no event less than a reasonable royalty.

91. Defendant's activities have been willful, egregious, wanton, and deliberate in disregard to SCT's rights, justifying a finding of willful infringement, enhanced damages under 35 U.S.C. § 284 and attorneys' fees and costs incurred in prosecuting this action under 35 U.S.C. § 285.
