CLAIMS FOR RELIEF

COUNT I

(Infringement of United States Patent No. 7,461,353)

35. SoftView incorporates by reference paragraphs 1 through 34 of this Complaint and realleges them as though fully set forth herein.

36. SoftView is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Apple, AT&T, Dell, HTC, Huawei, Kyocera, LG, Motorola, Samsung and Sony Ericsson, in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(a), have been and are currently infringing the '353 patent by, among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without authority or license from SoftView, infringing hardware and software products. Apple has been, among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the Apple Accused Products. AT&T has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the Apple Accused Products, Dell Accused Products, HTC Accused Products, LG Accused Products, Motorola Accused Products, Samsung Accused Products, and Sony Ericsson Accused Products. Dell has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the Dell Accused Products. HTC has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the HTC Accused Products. Huawei has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the Huawei Accused Products. Kyocera has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the Kyocera Accused Products. LG has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the LG Accused Products. Motorola has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the Motorola Accused Products. Samsung has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the Samsung Accused Products. Sony Ericsson has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the Sony Ericsson Accused Products.

37. The display of Web pages in a readable, user-friendly manner is an integral function of the Apple Accused Products, Dell Accused Products, HTC Accused Products, Huawei Accused Products, Kyocera Accused Products, LG Accused Products, Motorola Accused Products, Samsung Accused Products, and Sony Ericsson Accused Products (collectively, the "Accused Products"). In particular, the Accused Products display Web pages in a manner that allows the user to pan and zoom the Web pages for enhanced viewing in a manner that infringes the '353 patent. The Accused Products all contain common components and software, including the WebKit rendering engine, which enable the display, panning, and zooming of Web pages on the Accused Products.

38. SoftView is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Defendants have contributorily infringed and are currently contributorily infringing the '353 patent in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(c), by selling or offering for sale to third parties, in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without license or authority from SoftView, components that embody a material part of the inventions described in the '353 patent, are known by Defendants to be especially made or especially adapted for use in infringement of the '353 patent, and are not staple articles or commodities suitable for substantial, non-infringing use, including the Accused Products and their respective components. SoftView is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that these third parties have infringed and will infringe the '353 patent in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(a) by using infringing software and hardware products, including some or all of the Accused Products and their respective components.

39. On information and belief, Apple had actual knowledge of the '353 patent at least as early as September 2009. On September 2, 2009, Gary Rohrabach (General Manager of SoftView) provided notice by email to Apple that "key features of the [iPhone] internet browser were invented at our company first" and specifically identified the '353 patent. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Apple also had actual knowledge of the '353 patent based on the filing of the complaint in this action on May 12, 2010.

40. On information and belief, AT&T had knowledge of the '353 patent at least as early as December 2008. U.S. Patent No. 7,028,257 issued on April 11, 2006 to original assignee BellSouth Intellectual Property Corp. On information and belief, BellSouth Intellectual Property Corp. was a subsidiary of AT&T. U.S. Patent No. 7,028,257 includes a citation to published patent application 2002/0091738 A1, which is the parent application of the '353 patent, lists the same inventors as the '353 patent, and has a specification that is nearly identical to the '353 patent's specification. AT&T's familiarity with the '353 patent's parent application indicates that AT&T had knowledge of the technology at issue in this case and AT&T's connection with the inventor (and SoftView General Manager) Gary Rohrabough indicates that AT&T likely had knowledge of the '353 patent itself. On information and belief, AT&T also had knowledge of the '353 patent based on its relationship with Apple from June 2007 to March 2009. AT&T was the exclusive seller of the Apple iPhone. AT&T also had actual knowledge of the '353 patent based on the filing of the complaint in this action on May 12, 2010.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] In addition, Dell had actual knowledge of the '353 patent based on publicity surrounding the initial filing of this case in May 2010. News stories about the litigation and the '353 patent were published on major Web sites including CNET.com, PCMag.com, IP360.com, and TechCrunch.com. These articles identified the '353 patent and provided notice to Dell that it was infringing the '353 patent. Dell also had actual knowledge that it was infringing the '353 patent based on being served on October 5, 2011 with the Second Amended Complaint, which named Dell as a defendant and alleged that the Dell Accused Products were infringing the '353 patent.

42. On information and belief, HTC had actual knowledge of the '353 patent at least as early as March 2009 based on a letter dated March 20, 2009 from SoftView General Manager Gary Rohrabough to HTC co-founder and CEO Peter Chou. The March 20 letter informed HTC that SoftView is the owner of the '353 patent and inquired whether HTC was interested in licensing SoftView's technology. [REDACTED]

News stories about the litigation and the '353 patent were published on major Web sites including CNET.com, PCMag.com, IP360.com, and TechCrunch.com. These articles identified the '353 patent and provided notice to HTC that its products were likely infringing the '353 patent. The fact that HTC filed a declaratory judgment action involving the '353 patent in the Western District of Washington State on May 31, 2011 is evidence of HTC's actual knowledge of the '353 patent prior to that date. Indeed, HTC's Washington complaint explicitly references SoftView's motion for leave to amend the complaint to join HTC to the Delaware case, which was filed on April 22, 2011. HTC also had actual knowledge that it was infringing the '353 patent based on being served on October 11, 2011 with the Second Amended Complaint, which named HTC as a defendant and alleged that the HTC Accused Products were infringing the '353 patent.

43. On information and belief, Huawei had actual knowledge of the '353 patent no later than May 2010. 49. SoftView is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Defendants have actively induced and are currently inducing the infringement of the '353 patent in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(b) by knowingly and intentionally encouraging or aiding third parties to use infringing software and hardware products in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without license or authority from SoftView, including at least the Accused Products. SoftView is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that these third parties have infringed and will infringe the '353 patent in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(a) by using infringing software and hardware products, including some or all of the Accused Products. The Defendants through at least their user manuals, Web site support and training materials actively induced their customers and users of the Accused Products to infringe the '353 patent.

50. SoftView is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Defendants' infringement of the '353 patent has been and continues to be willful.

SoftView has also been damaged and, until an injunction issues, will continue to be damaged in an amount yet to be determined.

COUNT II

(Infringement of United States Patent No. 7,831,926)

53. SoftView incorporates by reference paragraphs 1 through 34 of this Complaint and realleges them as though fully set forth herein.

54. SoftView is informed and believes, and thereon alleges that Apple, AT&T, Dell, HTC, Huawei, Kyocera, LG, Motorola, Samsung and Sony Ericsson, in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(a), have been and are currently infringing the '926 patent by, among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without authority or license from SoftView, infringing hardware and software products. Apple has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the Apple Accused Products. AT&T has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the Apple Accused Products, Dell Accused Products, HTC Accused Products, LG Accused Products, Motorola Accused Products, Samsung Accused Products, and Sony Ericsson Accused Products. Dell has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the Dell Accused Products. HTC has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the HTC Accused Products. Huawei has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the Huawei Accused Products. Kyocera has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the Kyocera Accused Products. LG has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the LG Accused Products. Motorola has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the Motorola Accused Products. Samsung has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the Samsung Accused Products. Sony Ericsson has been among other things, making, using, offering to sell, importing, and selling in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without limitation, the Sony Ericsson Accused Products.

55. The display of Web pages in a readable, user-friendly manner is an integral function of the Accused Products. In particular, the Accused Products display Web pages in a manner that allows the user to pan and zoom the Web pages for enhanced viewing, in a manner that infringes the '926 patent. The Accused Products all contain common components and software, including the WebKit rendering engine, which enable the display, panning, and zooming of Web pages on the Accused Products.

56. SoftView is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Defendants have contributorily infringed and are currently contributorily infringing the '926 patent in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(c) by selling or offering for sale to third parties, in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without license or authority from SoftView, components that embody a material part of the inventions described in the '926 patent, are known by Defendants to be especially made or especially adapted for use in infringement of the '926 patent, and are not staple articles or commodities suitable for substantial, non-infringing use, including the Accused Products and their respective components. SoftView is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that these third parties have infringed and will infringe the '926 patent in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(a) by using infringing software and hardware products, including some or all of the Accused Products and their respective components.

57. On information and belief, Apple had actual knowledge of the '926 patent no later than November 2010. On November 10, 2010, SoftView filed an Amended Complaint against Apple identifying Apple as an infringer of the '926 patent. Apple thus had actual knowledge that its products infringed the '926 patent based on the filing of the Amended Complaint in this action.

58. On information and belief, AT&T had actual knowledge of the '926 patent no later than November 2010. On November 10, 2010, SoftView filed an Amended Complaint against AT&T identifying AT&T as an infringer of the '926 patent. AT&T thus had actual knowledge that its products infringed the '926 patent based on the filing of the Amended Complaint in this action. On information and belief, AT&T also had knowledge of the '926 patent based on its relationship with Apple. From June 2007 to March 2009, AT&T was the exclusive seller of the Apple iPhone.

[REDACTED] The fact that HTC filed a declaratory judgment action involving the '926 patent in the Western District of Washington State on May 31, 2011 is evidence of HTC's actual knowledge of the '926 patent prior to that date. Indeed, HTC's Washington complaint explicitly references SoftView's motion for leave to amend the complaint to join HTC to the Delaware case, which was filed on April 22, 2011. HTC also had actual knowledge that it was infringing the '926 patent based on being served on October 11, 2011 with the Second Amended Complaint, which named HTC as a defendant and alleged that the HTC Accused Products were infringing the '926 patent.

[REDACTED] Sony Ericsson also had actual knowledge that it was infringing the '926 patent based on being served on October 6, 2011 with the Second Amended Complaint, which named Sony Ericsson as a defendant and alleged that the Sony Ericsson Accused Products were infringing the '926 patent. Sony Ericsson also had actual knowledge of the '926 patent because Sony Corp. and Telefonaktiebolaget L M Ericsson cited patents in the '926 patent family in two or more patents assigned to them. These patents include at least:

- United States Patent No. 7,191,399, entitled "Electronic Information Display Apparatus, Electronic Information Display Method, Recording Medium and Program," which issued March 13, 2007 and is assigned to Sony Corp., cites a patent in the '926 patent family.
- United States Patent No. 7,584,471, entitled "Plug-In Model," which issued September 1, 2009 and is assigned to Telefonaktiebolaget L M Ericsson, cites a patent in the '926 patent family.

67. SoftView is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Defendants have actively induced and are currently inducing the infringement of the '926 patent in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(b) by knowingly and intentionally encouraging or aiding third parties to use infringing software and hardware products in this judicial district and elsewhere throughout the United States, without license or authority from SoftView, including at least the Accused Products. SoftView is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that these third parties have infringed and will infringe the '926 patent in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(a) by using infringing software and hardware products, including some or all of the Accused Products. The Defendants through user manuals, web site support and training materials actively induced their customers and users of the Accused Products to infringe the '926 patent.

68. SoftView is informed and believes, and thereon alleges, that Defendants' infringement of the '926 patent has been and continues to be willful.

69. Unless enjoined by this Court, Defendants will continue to infringe the '926 patent.

70. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' conduct, SoftView has suffered and will continue to suffer irreparable injury for which it has no adequate remedy at law. SoftView has also been damaged and, until an injunction issues, will continue to be damaged in an amount yet to be determined.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, SoftView prays that the Court enter a judgment as follows:

A. For a judicial determination that the '353 and '926 patents are infringed by Defendants;

B. For a judicial determination that the '353 and '926 patents are valid and enforceable;

C. For a judicial determination that Defendants' infringement of the '353 and '926 patents is willful;

D. For an order preliminarily and permanently enjoining Defendants, and their directors, officers, employees, attorneys, agents, and all persons in active concert or participation with any of the foregoing from further acts of infringement of the '353 and '926 patents;

E. For damages resulting from Defendants' infringement of the '353 and '926 patents and the trebling of such damages because of the willful nature of Defendants' infringement;

F. For an assessment of interest on damages;

G. For a declaration that this case is exceptional pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 285 and an award of attorneys' fees and costs in this action; and

H. For such other and further relief as this Court deems just and equitable.
