Hi All,

Here is the follow up to the microscope pics from 11 days ago. The attached are from the most recent charge. There is actually REDACTED material in the cells. It is evenly distributed throughout the depth of the sample and it is not affecting penetration so I believe it is preservative and wax acting as it should. The poles are no longer orange and are back to being consistent with brown Penta poles.

The plant is doing another mix today and due to the REDACTED. The surface is REDACTED in the drum. If anything it made it easier to get out but it is something we will keep an eye on. I do not think we will want to leave them REDACTED

REDACTED tested the initial trial material REDACTED without issue so it seems a bit different.

Thanks,

REDACTED

Hi All,

Something REDACTED in the REDACTED. See the attached pictures (zooming in helps). Does not seem

REDACTED but it does look similar. We also saw the REDACTED

REDACTED which we do not see here.

REDACTED

I sent out newest work solution samples to Viance and X today. I also sent wood samples

Thanks,

REDACTED
